Worried about his vision, Tommy's mom takes him to see Dr. Shelly, the eye doctor. Dr. Shelly examines Tommy's eyes and discovers that he has a little bit of nearsightedness. This means that Tommy can see things close up clearly, but things far away look blurry.

Dr. Shelly explains to Tommy that he needs glasses to help him see better. Tommy is a bit hesitant at first. He doesn't want to be different from his friends. But Dr. Shelly assures him that glasses are nothing to be ashamed of. They're just a tool to help him see the world more clearly.

Tommy picks out a pair of glasses that he loves and puts them on. Wow! Everything looks so much clearer now! Tommy can see the fish swimming in the distance, the coral reefs in all their vibrant colors, and even the tiny shells on the ocean floor.

Tommy is so happy with his new glasses. He can now see the world more clearly and enjoy all the adventures that the ocean has to offer.
